

HASS Rubric: Lost Pet Reunification

Does the organization provide free or low-cost pet identification, tags, and microchips?

Beginner

The organization provides information about external organizations or programs that may offer low-cost or free identification, tags, and microchips for the public. There are no established partnerships in place.

Intermediate

The organization provides low-cost or free identification, tags, and microchips for the public through a referral system, such as pets.findhelp.com, and established local and national partnerships. To be considered intermediate, the referral or partner organization must be confirmed to be actively providing low-cost or free identification, tags, and microchips, and be accepting new requests.

Advanced

The organization provides the public directly with low-cost or free identification, tags, microchips, and microchip registrations. This may include providing financial coverage for this service at a partnering veterinary clinic or practice or providing this service directly on-site.
